

October was Disability Employment Awareness Month

October was Disability Employment Awareness Month. In celebration of this, the Bend City Council honored Full Access with a proclamation. Mayor Kathie Eckman and city councilor Jeff Eagar delivered the proclamation, which outlined the city's commitment to ensuring that all people are equally empowered to achieve their educational, and social and professional goals. Mia Swanson, Full Access Personal Agent, and Jordan Ohlde, Full Access client and self advocate accepted the proclamation on behalf of all of the individuals that Full Access serves. Jordan Ohlde spoke to his personal experience of working in the community. Jordan has worked at one of the local theaters in Bend for almost five years! He talked about the importance for him to have the access and ability to work in the community. He stressed the need for equal employment for people with disabilities, especially in these tough economic times.

Central Oregon continues to have a high unemployment rate, but many of the people served by Full Access continue to maintain their employment which speaks to their amazing skills and on the job performance, as well as the support within our community.

We are very fortunate to have city leaders that honor and uphold the nation's promise to extend equal rights and opportunity to all citizens.
